“For clients, having access to direct civil legal assistance means being one step closer to achieving life-changing solutions that can prevent issues from escalating into overwhelming barriers for them, their families, and for their communities.”

For 107 years, Maryland Legal Aid has worked to improve the fundamental economic, social, and health conditions for Maryland’s most vulnerable residents. Thanks to contributions from donors and community partners, during the last year, Maryland Legal Aid has successfully advanced its delivery of direct civil legal services and increased staff and resources in order to effectively respond to the growing needs of low-income Marylanders. An innovative Human Rights Framework adopted in 2009 underlies Maryland Legal Aid’s efforts to help increase access to justice for families and individuals, while strengthening communities in all 23 Maryland counties.

This is only possible with a broad base of community support, which allows Maryland Legal Aid to do what it does best: solve problems, strengthen communities, change lives, and offer hope, one client at a time.

As the third largest law-firm in the state*, Maryland Legal Aid is the only statewide provider of direct legal services for low-income individuals. What does this mean for clients? It means access. Clients can walk into one of Maryland Legal Aid’s twelve full-service locations, or call the intake hotline, or complete an intake form online, or even visit an outreach clinic and receive immediate expert legal advice for their civil legal needs, including criminal record expungements. For clients, having access to direct civil legal assistance means being one step closer to achieving life-changing solutions that can prevent issues from escalating into overwhelming barriers for them, their families, and for their communities.

Maryland Legal Aid recognizes that equal access to justice is the foundation upon which upholding individuals’ basic human rights is built. As such, this past year, Maryland Legal Aid further mobilized its advocacy with the expansion of the Community Lawyering Initiative, which brings critical legal services directly to neighborhoods that need them most. Financial support from individuals, law firms and funders like the Abell Foundation and the Maryland Legal Services Corporation, and new partnerships with community organizations across the state, have enabled Maryland Legal Aid to increase its capacity and expand its reach to assist eligible low-income residents with their civil legal issues. Through the Initiative, Maryland Legal Aid is able to eliminate barriers to obtaining housing, employment, protection from domestic abuse, and child custody in convenient locations that people trust. Looking forward, Maryland Legal Aid is positioning itself to present the Community Lawyering Initiative as more than just a program, but as a national model for the efficient and effective delivery of direct legal services.

In addition to expanding its Community Lawyering Initiative, Maryland Legal Aid established a wholly-owned subsidiary, the Maryland Center for Legal Assistance (MCLA), created to operate the Maryland District Court Self-Help Resource Centers and the Maryland Courts Self-Help Center, in accordance with a contract with the Administrative Office of the Courts. While operation of the Self-Help Centers is the first MCLA activity, the work of MCLA may be expanded to include other direct legal services that are vital for low-income Marylanders, but beyond the scope of Maryland Legal Aid’s areas of practice.

Throughout this Annual Report, you will read stories from just a few of the 120,000 people who were impacted by life-changing legal help from Maryland Legal Aid in 2017. You will also learn how Maryland Legal Aid empowers clients and creates opportunity and stability for communities.

The contributions from those who have helped Maryland Legal Aid achieve success on behalf of its clients this past year are remarkable. Even amid challenges such as proposed funding cuts, Maryland Legal Aid is able to thrive and provide clients with high-quality legal assistance. An abundance of gratitude and appreciation is extended to Maryland Legal Aid’s supporters, including donors, staff, Board members, Equal Justice Council members, pro bono attorneys, volunteers, community partners, foundations, and governmental funders, most notably the Maryland Legal Services Corporation and the federal Legal Services Corporation. Your support makes it possible for Maryland Legal Aid to reach our most vulnerable neighbors in every corner of the state.

STATEWIDE CLIENT IMPACT IN 2017

Securing Housing in Midwestern Maryland
Maryland Legal Aid helped Mr. Weedon, a 60-year-old United States Army veteran, secure housing in Frederick County. See page 4 for more.

2017 “Coats and Clinics” events
In partnership with Clothes4Souls, Maryland Legal Aid distributed coats to children and adults in need at four separate events. At each event, eligible adults also received free criminal record expungements from Maryland Legal Aid’s Community Lawyering team. See page 9 for more.

Prince George’s County Family Justice Center
Attorney Cheryl Chado from Maryland Legal Aid’s Metropolitan Maryland office works at the Center three days a week doing client intake, providing brief legal advice, and taking cases for representation. See page 10 for more.
Lee Weedon is a 60-year-old United States Army veteran who was homeless for two years before coming to Maryland Legal Aid for assistance. He had been denied a Section 8 housing voucher by the Public Housing Authority (PHA) because of alleged alcoholism and misdemeanors for trespassing and sleeping in parks. His caseworker at the Frederick Community Action Agency brought him to Maryland Legal Aid in hopes of getting his criminal record expunged and appealing the PHA’s decision.

When Attorney Alecia Frisby Trout first met Mr. Weedon, she saw someone who was skeptical about the system, but desperate to find housing. She and her colleague, Attorney Sunny Desai, teamed up to help Mr. Weedon. Attorney Trout handled the PHA appeal while Attorney Desai handled the criminal record expungements. Attorney Trout advised Mr. Weedon to enroll in an outpatient alcohol treatment program. She also represented him at a hearing, where she argued that the PHA was allowed to use alcoholism as an excuse for a denial only if it caused the individual to be a threat to the community. She argued that Mr. Weedon was a peaceful individual who had no history of violence and was an eligible candidate for the housing voucher.

A few weeks later, Mr. Weedon’s application was accepted and he received a housing voucher to secure a home. Without the stress and uncertainty of homelessness, Mr. Weedon is able to focus on creating a better life for himself. He continues to see a counselor and is adjusting to life “inside.” Attorney Desai was able to expunge the misdemeanors on Mr. Weedon’s criminal record, and Mr. Weedon is happy with the help he received from Maryland Legal Aid.

“It’s so nice to be able to go home. I’m happy that I don’t have to worry about the cold anymore.”

–Mr. Weedon

Ms. K. was a single mother living in a public housing community plagued with violence and drug activity. She had applied for a housing transfer with the Public Housing Authority (PHA) three times and had been denied each time. Ms. K. came to Maryland Legal Aid’s Baltimore City office where Paralegal Deborah Lewis-Smith worked to negotiate with the PHA. A few months later, Ms. K. received a housing voucher that enabled her and her family to transfer to a safer neighborhood right across the street from her children’s school.
Preserving Medical Benefits in Baltimore City

Theodore and Michele Rosenberg are a retired couple who both suffer from a number of health conditions which require frequent hospitalizations and doctors’ visits. Their sole source of income is Social Security Retirement.

Even though they have Medicare, they incurred overwhelming medical debt as a result of co-pays and co-insurance they could not afford.

Before he retired, Mr. Rosenberg worked in the insurance industry, so he and Mrs. Rosenberg attempted to handle all of their medical paperwork themselves, including applying for Medicaid insurance to help pay for their medical bills. However, their Medicaid insurance application was denied by the Department of Social Services. While they appealed the decision, the appeal was dismissed because both Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg were hospitalized on the date of their first hearing and could not attend.

The Rosenbergs were continuously denied visits to their medical providers because of outstanding balances. Long-time residents of Baltimore, they were familiar with the work of Maryland Legal Aid and turned to its Baltimore City office for help. Attorney Randi Skullesstad, from Maryland Legal Aid’s Long-Term Care Assistance Project, reviewed the Rosenbergs’ case and requested a new appeal hearing to show that the Rosenbergs met Medicaid’s complex Spend-Down requirements.

With Maryland Legal Aid’s assistance, the Rosenbergs were able to obtain Medicaid insurance and negotiate the repayment of their medical bills.

“She came by late some evenings, met us on a weekend, and was very conscientious of our situation.”

—Mr. Rosenberg

Empowering Older Adults in Montgomery County

Maryland Legal Aid helped an older adult keep her Community First Choice services and secure affordable hearing aids through the Hearing and Speech Agency of Baltimore. The Community First Choice program provides community services and supports to empower older adults and people with disabilities to live in their communities outside of nursing homes or assisted living facilities. The client’s daughter shared, “I am truly grateful for all that Maryland Legal Aid has done for my mother!”
Defending Language Access Rights on the Lower Eastern Shore

Maryland Legal Aid filed and won a discrimination case on behalf of an LEP (Limited English Proficiency) client. The client was refused an interpreter while receiving medical attention at a local medical provider’s office. Because the medical provider receives federal financial assistance, per the Civil Rights Acts of 1964, the provider is prohibited from discriminating against individuals based on their race, color, or national origin.

To address Maryland Legal Aid’s complaint, the medical provider voluntarily took action to become compliant with federal regulations. The provider drafted and implemented policies and procedures regarding language services for LEP patients, including the provision of “I Speak” cards to help them identify their primary languages so that interpreters can be provided.

Obtaining Social Security Benefits in Metropolitan Maryland

An adolescent client had been receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits for a number of mental health disorders. The Social Security Administration (SSA) terminated the client’s benefits after determining that her condition had improved. Maryland Legal Aid conducted interviews with the client’s mother, collected the client’s medical and school records, and represented the client in a hearing at the local SSA office. Based on the evidence collected by Maryland Legal Aid, the hearing examiner concluded that there had not been significant medical improvement, resulting in the reinstatement of the client’s SSI benefits.

Maryland Legal Aid’s Social Work Unit

Many clients who come to Maryland Legal Aid for assistance have a myriad of issues in addition to legal problems. Some of these issues include mental or physical health ailments that may affect the staff’s ability to provide the best representation.

Maryland Legal Aid is fortunate to have an internal Social Work Unit, located in its Baltimore City office, made possible through a partnership with the University of Maryland School of Social Work, which provides graduate level interns for the project. The Social Work Unit is also made possible through generous grant funding from foundations such as the LaVerna Hahn Charitable Trust and the Alvin and Fanny B. Thalheimer Foundation. By working together, legal and social work staff can offer the best possible outcomes to clients facing difficult circumstances.

Advocating for Children in Northeastern Maryland

Maryland Legal Aid advocated for two CINA (Child in Need of Assistance) clients in the public school system not to be transferred to alternative education programs for students with behavioral issues. The children’s attorney was able to convince the school officials to follow the clients’ Individualized Education Programs (IEP) so that they could remain in stable class environments.
THE COMMUNITY LAWYERING INITIATIVE

Maryland Legal Aid’s Community Lawyering Initiative places highly-skilled lawyers directly in underserved neighborhoods to provide free, life-changing legal assistance. The concept for the Initiative began in 2015 when Maryland Legal Aid launched a weekly Lawyer in the Library program at the Enoch Pratt Free Library Pennsylvania Avenue branch following the civil unrest in Baltimore. As awareness of the program increased and the need for civil legal services and criminal record expungements became more apparent, Maryland Legal Aid answered the demand for services by designating staff and recruiting pro bono attorneys, paralegals, and law students to help serve clients through the Initiative.

The Community Lawyering Initiative includes a number of weekly and monthly expungement clinics coordinated and hosted in partnership with community organizations from around the state, as well as an expansion of the Lawyer in the Library program to other library locations in Baltimore City, and Baltimore, Calvert, Carroll, Frederick, Montgomery, Prince George’s, St. Mary’s and Washington counties.

Bringing legal help to those who can’t reach it

Maryland Legal Aid’s Lawyer in the Library program was featured on the cover of The Baltimore Sun (November 16, 2017).

“I was surprised there was a service like this for free. It changed my whole outlook on everything. I feel like it is a second chance at life and careers I didn’t think were possible at one time.”

—Lawyer in the Library client Tyrone Burns
The United States Department of Justice’s (DOJ) Office for Access to Justice recognized April 24-28, 2017 as National Reentry Week. National Reentry Week features a number of events, announcements, and publications that demonstrate the federal government’s commitment to improving reentry outcomes of previously incarcerated individuals and raise awareness of the importance of successful reentry. Many community-based services, including legal aid programs, hosted reentry-related events across the country. This year, Maryland Legal Aid welcomed guests from the DOJ to observe an expungement clinic held at Goodwill Industries of the Chesapeake, Inc. in Baltimore City, where more than 60 people received civil legal assistance and criminal record expungements.

Community Lawyering and Workforce Development

The Maryland Legal Services Corporation (MLSC), Maryland Legal Aid’s largest funder, supports the work of two attorneys from Maryland Legal Aid who are assigned to work at workforce development centers in Prince George’s and Allegany counties to provide one-stop assistance to participants seeking employment. The attorneys provide brief advice, criminal record expungements, and full legal representation for those who are financially eligible. Attorneys also give “Know Your Rights” presentations on topics such as child support, consumer rights, domestic violence, housing law, and public benefits. Additionally, a second MLSC grant supports the work of two Maryland Legal Aid attorneys who provide civil legal assistance to participants at Baltimore City workforce development centers. This effort began in 2016 and is a partnership between MLSC and the Baltimore City Mayor’s Office of Employment Development to bring skills training, education, and support services to youth and young adults in distressed communities in Baltimore City.

“Thank you so very, very much for this information…I hope I don’t need you all again, but so appreciate you all being there for the people of Maryland. May your budget increase and your services become more and more appreciated. Thank you very much for helping me. I couldn’t be more thankful.”

—Ms. M. on her wage claim case (Baltimore City office)
Maryland Legal Aid distributed 1,700 coats to children and adults in need at events in Baltimore City, Germantown (Montgomery County), and Hagerstown (Washington County). At each event, eligible adults received free criminal record expungements from Maryland Legal Aid’s Community Lawyering team. The coats were donated by Macy’s through the non-profit Clothes4Souls. This is the third year that Maryland Legal Aid has worked with Clothes4Souls and community partners in Maryland to help those in need.

ExpungeItMD.org 1-year Anniversary

Since September 2016, hundreds of legal professionals in Maryland have been using ExpungeItMD.org—the free, user-friendly expungement app developed by Maryland Legal Aid. In just over a year, more than 3,000 clients have been helped; upwards of 12,000 expungement petitions have been generated; and over $300,000 in fees have been waived for low-income Marylanders. ExpungeItMD.org averages over 250 new client entries each month, with each client having an average of four or more cases that are eligible for expungement.

Abell Foundation Grant

Maryland Legal Aid received a $90,000 grant from the Abell Foundation in support of the Lawyer in the Library program in Baltimore City. The funding provided through this grant allows Maryland Legal Aid to expand the program to four additional branch locations of the Enoch Pratt Free Library, thus increasing access to justice for many more low-income Baltimore residents in more neighborhoods.

“...I have to thank you so very much for helping me when no one else would listen. I’m not used to someone going above and beyond the way you did. You make me believe again that people are good ‘just because’ they are. It’s a good feeling and it makes me want to be a better person as well.”

– Ms. G., on her divorce and child custody case (Southern Maryland office)
Since February 2017, Maryland Legal Aid has been providing civil legal services at the new Family Justice Center (FJC). The FJC—part of the Prince George’s County Circuit Court—is a multi-disciplinary service center that serves survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, human trafficking, and elder abuse. There are more than 20 partner organizations who work at the FJC on a full- or part-time basis. Attorney Cheryl Chado from Maryland Legal Aid’s Metropolitan Maryland office works at the Center three days a week doing client intake, providing brief legal advice, and taking cases for representation. At the FJC, Maryland Legal Aid has opened over a hundred cases involving protective orders, divorce, child custody, landlord/tenant, and criminal record expungements.

Maryland Legal Aid established a wholly-owned subsidiary, the Maryland Center for Legal Assistance (MCLA) in July 2017. A separate legal entity, MCLA does not receive funds from Maryland Legal Aid’s federal funder, the Legal Services Corporation (LSC). MCLA was created in order to operate the four District Court Self-Help Resource Centers located in Baltimore City, Glen Burnie, Salisbury, and Upper Marlboro, and the Maryland Courts Self-Help Center (live chat and telephone services), in accordance with a contract with the Administrative Office of the Courts. The Self-Help Resource Centers deal with a wide range of civil legal matters, including landlord/tenant, consumer issues such as debt collection, child support and family law issues, and criminal record expungements. In 2017, more than 80,000 self-represented litigants were assisted through the Self-Help Centers. Visit www.MDCLA.org to learn more.

The Maryland Center for Legal Assistance

Maryland Legal Aid’s Midwestern Maryland office received the Non-Profit Partner of the Year Award from Frederick Community College (FCC). Over the last decade, FCC and its Paralegal Program have partnered with Maryland Legal Aid’s Midwestern Maryland office to serve the Frederick community while promoting student learning.
AACL Secures First Amendment Victory for Maryland Legal Aid

After being denied the opportunity to conduct outreach to farmworkers at a Montgomery County farm and facing a “no trespass” order issued by local police, Maryland Legal Aid sought the help of the Maryland ACLU. The ACLU partnered with Cohen Milstein in Washington, D.C. to file the case of Nohora Rivero and Legal Aid Bureau, Inc. v. Montgomery County, Maryland, et. al. The Defendants’ efforts to dismiss the case were denied by Judge Grimm of the U.S. District Court for Maryland. In addressing the argument that the case had become moot, Judge Grimm cited a human rights report that Maryland Legal Aid had made to the U.N. Special Rapporteur on Extreme Poverty, which documented numerous instances in which Maryland Legal Aid and others providing support services to farmworkers were denied access. Judge Grimm’s opinion further found that service providers, such as Maryland Legal Aid, have a First Amendment right to engage in door-to-door outreach of workers until they are turned away by residents. The Court’s decision provides important precedent in Maryland Legal Aid’s statewide efforts to advise farmworkers of their rights and responsibilities and to ensure that farmworkers are paid legally required wages and are provided adequate housing conditions and workplaces free of occupational hazards. Judge Grimm’s decision paved the way for a favorable settlement of the case.

CHANA and TurnAround, Inc.

In October 2014, Maryland Legal Aid formed a partnership with TurnAround, Inc., a nonprofit that provides counseling and support services to victims of sexual assault, sex trafficking, and domestic violence in Baltimore City and Baltimore County. The partnership between Maryland Legal Aid and TurnAround is funded by a three-year Legal Assistance for Victims (LAV) grant from the United States Department of Justice’s Office on Violence Against Women. Victims are often burdened with multiple legal issues associated with sexual assault and domestic violence, and Maryland Legal Aid helps to make the justice system easier to navigate for clients.

This past year, through a grant from the Governor’s Office of Crime Control and Prevention under the Victims of Crime Act (VOCA), Maryland Legal Aid began partnering with CHANA, a Baltimore City non-profit organization that assists victims of domestic violence and elder abuse through counseling and therapy services. This grant provides funding for civil legal assistance to older adults suffering from financial, mental, emotional and physical abuse.

These grants offer Maryland Legal Aid the opportunity to embed its attorneys and paralegals at the offices of TurnAround and CHANA, as neither have legal staff to serve their clients. Having qualified and experienced attorneys and paralegals on site is a great benefit to the clients and staff of TurnAround and CHANA.

Protection from Domestic Violence in Baltimore County

Ms. J. was a college freshmen when she found herself in an abusive relationship. For more than six months, she endured verbal abuse from her boyfriend, which eventually escalated to physical assault and rape. “[This incident] put my life on hold,” said Ms. J. “I was lost after that…I did not know what to do next.”

Ms. J. went to the hospital for a rape kit where she learned about TurnAround, Inc. and Maryland Legal Aid. Ms. J. was assisted by Maryland Legal Aid Attorney Sophia Barilone, who is based at the TurnAround office in Towson, MD.

With Attorney Barilone’s encouragement, Ms. J. joined a support group and underwent extensive therapy at TurnAround. Attorney Barilone initiated legal proceedings against Ms. J.’s ex-boyfriend, who was found guilty of domestic assault. Recalling the relief that Ms. J. and her family felt after the judge’s verdict, Attorney Barilone shared, “Her entire family was in the courtroom with the family’s pastor. We all gathered in a circle outside of the courtroom and Ms. J. and her family cried tears of joy. The pastor said a prayer. The family kept thanking me. Everyone, including myself, was overwhelmed. Ms. J.’s whole village was there and it was a powerful and uplifting moment.”

Today, Ms. J. looks forward to continuing college and earning her degree. “This definitely changed my life,” said Ms. J. “I look forward to moving on from all of this. Not forgetting, but learning from it…it motivates me to keep going forward.”

A Day in the Life at Maryland Legal Aid

Airman 1st Class Jonathan Padish with the United States Air Force was invited to Maryland Legal Aid’s Baltimore City office to document “a day in the life” of a legal aid office. Jonathan, an attorney, is also an Air Force photojournalist currently in training at the Defense Information School at Fort Meade, MD. For a photography assignment, Jonathan requested to take photos of Maryland Legal Aid staff throughout their normal workday to capture what it is like behind the scenes for legal aid attorneys advocating for their clients. Many of the photos included in this annual report were taken by Jonathan.

Legal Aid Bureau

Annual Report 2017
Pro Bono Support for Maryland Legal Aid

Attorneys listed below are those who have provided advice or direct legal representation to Maryland Legal Aid and/or its clients, or who have supported the organization through a wide range of professional services including expert legal counsel, accounting, and procurement. Much of Maryland Legal Aid’s success depends on support from private attorneys who provide pro bono representation, legal support, and educational/training services to Maryland Legal Aid and its clients. Maryland Legal Aid is sincerely grateful for their efforts in helping it to advance its mission.

“Charges on a person’s record can impact their employment, housing, credit, and much more. My clients have been unbelievably appreciative and relieved that I am able to help them with this one aspect of their lives. It has been incredibly rewarding to know that I can help make tangible differences in people’s lives.”
– Joanna Diamond, attorney and public policy advocate

“One cannot overstate the transformational impact on a person’s life when the burden of a criminal record is erased, and for the first time, they can pursue employment, education and housing opportunities based solely on their own merit. It is gratifying to see the amazed and happy looks on our clients’ faces when told that their record is now clean and they can become sustaining and productive members of society for themselves and their families.”
– Gregg Bernstein, Partner at Zuckerman Spaeder LLP

Celebrating 20 Years: The Equal Justice Council

In 2017, Maryland Legal Aid’s Equal Justice Council (EJC) celebrated 20 years of actively promoting equal access to justice for Maryland’s most economically disadvantaged and vulnerable residents. The founding members of the EJC recognized that traditional funding sources could not come close to meeting the need and the demand for Maryland Legal Aid’s services. In order to address this shortfall, the primary goal of the EJC was (and still is) to improve access to justice for low-income Marylanders by increasing and diversifying Maryland Legal Aid’s resources, financial and otherwise, and serving as ambassadors on behalf of Maryland Legal Aid. The EJC is composed of managing attorneys from Maryland’s top law firms and other prominent members of the Maryland Bar and corporate community.

EJC contributions over 20 years have included:

- $4.6 million dollars raised from law firms
- $2.5 million in cy pres settlements directed to Maryland Legal Aid
- $508,000 in personal donations from EJC members
- $3 million in estimated value of pro bono counsel

EJC Annual Equal Justice Awards Breakfast

The EJC held its annual Equal Justice Awards Breakfast at Camden Yards on May 17, 2017 and welcomed Senator Chris Van Hollen to the event as the keynote speaker. Senator Van Hollen characterized attorneys as social engineers and emphasized that Maryland Legal Aid plays a critical role in ensuring that low-income citizens have equal access to justice. Sara H. Arthur, President of the Maryland State Bar Association, also addressed attendees and presented Maryland Legal Aid’s Equal Justice Council with a special $5,000 donation to support its work of advancing justice for low-income Marylanders.

In 2016, Venable LLP began a unique partnership with Maryland Legal Aid through its Loaned Associates Program. Through this program, three Venable associates each work for six months at a time at Maryland Legal Aid over a period of 18 months. This significant support means that Maryland Legal Aid and its clients benefit from the work of three experienced lawyers at no cost as Venable covers their salaries. In turn, the associates are able to enhance their litigation skills, manage their own cases, and take the lead with client interactions.

Along with the generous annual contributions from the Venable Foundation, this partnership further demonstrates Venable’s deep commitment to improving access to justice for all.

Grant for Innovation Project

In 2017, the Venable Foundation awarded Maryland Legal Aid a $150,000 grant to support the creation of a Venable Innovation Project (VIP). This exceptional gift was made in addition to the Foundation’s generous annual contribution. The initiative will provide critical legal assistance to thousands of disadvantaged individuals and families in Maryland.

Leave a Legacy for Justice

A planned gift to Maryland Legal Aid demonstrates your ongoing commitment to equal justice for all. By including Maryland Legal Aid in your will or estate plan, you can help secure justice for vulnerable Marylanders for generations to come. Many types of gifts allow you to fulfill your charitable intentions and may result in immediate and possible future benefits for you.

The simplest planned gift is to add a bequest to your will, in which you designate a gift or portion of your estate to Maryland Legal Aid. When making a bequest to Maryland Legal Aid, please use the following language:

“I bequeath to Legal Aid Bureau, Inc., a private, non-profit, 501(c)(3) organization currently headquartered at 500 East Lexington Street, Baltimore, Maryland, 21202, the sum of $____ (or __% of my residuary estate) for the unrestricted use and purposes of the organization.”

If you would like to leave a legacy for justice, or for more information about what planned giving options work best for you, please contact Director of Development Graham Cowger at gcowger@mdlab.org or (410) 951-7706.

The late George McManus, Jr. was a founding member of the Equal Justice Council and a vocal supporter of Maryland Legal Aid’s mission. Mr. McManus established The George W. McManus, Jr. Foundation Fund of the Baltimore Community Foundation, which provides an annual distribution to Maryland Legal Aid and other organizations. Maryland Legal Aid is grateful to Mr. McManus for his stalwart dedication during his lifetime and for his continued support through this most generous legacy gift.

If you plan to make a bequest, gift of stock, or have any other questions about supporting Maryland Legal Aid, please contact Director of Development Graham Cowger at (410) 951-7706 or at gcowger@mdlab.org.
